
CASTING BALLOTS (Dave Dorrias Photo)

Teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to strike.

Teachers Vote To Strike

Members of Local No. 1481 of the American Federation of Teachers, meeting at Serramonte High School in Daly City Tuesday morning, voted 208-83 in favor of going on strike.

There were two abstentions and one ballot was declared invalid.

Teachers were supposed to report to work Tuesday. The first day of classes is today.

Before the vote, leaders of the union, which is the exclusive bargaining agent for teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District, told the teachers they foresaw no more progress at the bargaining table.

The teachers have been negotiating with the district since last October over a wage reopener clause promised for 1977-78.

AFT President Marcy Ballard made it clear that the dispute does not involve wages for 1978-79. The state legislature forbade an increase in salaries this year for public employees under Senate Bill 154.

The district's latest offer to the teachers was to set aside $636,000 to be negotiated for salaries "if all legal restrictions are removed and it is proved to be available for General Fund expenditures."

AFT leaders said that offer was insulting. They claim the district has hidden $1.5 million that could be used for salaries.

AFT's legal counsel, Bob Bezemeck, told the teachers, "There is abolutely no legal barrier to giving you a wage increase for 1977-78."

Judy Reagan, a Terra Nova High teacher and a member of the bargaining team, said the team believed the district was poor last October when the district claimed to have only $19,800 available for wage talks.

She added that, in fact-finding, "We proved the existence of over $1 million that the district could have put on the table. The district has yet to refute the fact-finder's findings."

Another member of the bargaining team, AFT Vice President Bill Curran, explained that the money dispute is "as simple as a shell game — now you see it, now you don't."

Curran said the district raised only $10 million from bonds, all of which were spent three years ago. But he remarked that teachers found $11½ million when they studied the district's books this summer.

"That means $1½ million had to come from somewhere else," Curran said.

When Mrs. Ballard asked the teachers, "Do you understand that the money in the bond fund account is not bond fund money?" they responded loudly "Yes!"

The majority of speeches given by teachers were in support of the strike.

John Wherry, an Oceana High School teacher, commented, "This is a totally new experience for me. I've never done anything like this before." Wherry declared he would support the strike because, "They (district officials) have not negotiated in good faith and I believe they are testing us. We either strike or we lose our credibility."

Another Oceana teacher, Mike Moser, said, "If this group votes 'no,' on this resolution . . . we are going to get absolutely nothing."

Mike Tugendreich, who has been 17 years in the district and currently teaches at Serramonte High School, remarked, "Our dignity as teachers is at stake. Our economy well-being hangs in the balance."

But a few teachers urged their co-workers not to support the strike. Joe Bava, head of the business department at Jefferson High School, explained, "I can't afford to strike." He added that he was "a little disillusioned" by the many teachers he knew who had voted in favor of Proposition 13, which decreased property tax revenues available to schools.

District officials have maintained during the past 11 months that there were no surplus funds available to give teachers a wage increase. Superintendent Floyd Gonella has said that four legal advisors told him they deemed the paying of a salary hike retroactively to be improper.

Immediately following the strike vote, Gonella remarked, "It's unfortunate that they took a vote to strike but they in turn have set the stage and we'll take our responsibility. School will be open Wednesday. We will have regular substitute employees along with some of the regular staff."

Surprise DC Funds

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Daly City will receive $1,200,450 more in property tax revenues this year that the city originally anticipated, according to Acting Finance Director Ronald Mitchell.

Mitchell explained that the assessed value of property in the city is much higher than Daly City officials had expected. Instead of receiving $1,270,000 in general property tax revenues — including homeowner and business inventory relief — Daly City now can count on $2,478,450, Mitchell said.

But the city won't receive as much of the state's $1 billion surplus as originally was estimated. Instead of the $1 million the city expected, state finance officials now estimate the city will receive a sum in the $550,000 to $646,000 range. Mitchell said Daly City is supposed to hear by Tuesday exactly what portion of the state surplus it will receive.

Adding all the figures up, it appears Daly City will have $750,000 more to spend than was anticipated when the City Council approved a belt-tightening plan that included 27 layoffs of full-time city workers at the end of September.

Mitchell said it's up to the council to decide whether to eliminate those layoffs. "But the first priority that we had was that there would be no layoffs," he remarked.

City Manager David Rowe commented, "We do not expect to have to lay off nearly as many people as previously anticipated."

The council is expected to meet during the second week of September to determine the budget for the coming months. The city has been operating under an interim summer budget, conceived soon after passage of Proposition 13. The council now has a better picture of what funds are available.

Mitchell has directed department heads to list personnel and projects they would like to restore, should part of the $700,000 be made available to them.

Priorities will be assigned to these "shopping lists" before the council considers them.

Daly City Promotes Colma for Tailtrack

Unincorporated Colma may be the site of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's proposed tailtrack and storage yard, if Daly City officials get their way.

At an informal meeting Thursday with BART representatives, Daly City Mayor William Schumacher and Councilman Victor Kyriakis made it clear that Daly City doesn't want BART's storage tracks within its limits.

"But it may be that we don't have a choice or say in the matter," Schumacher said. So the two councilmen submitted their proposals for the tailtrack, which BART claims would trim turnaround time for BART trains from four to two minutes. BART says the storage facility would save the system money and electricity since BART currently must store all its trains in the East Bay.

Representing BART at the meeting were Howard Goode, manager of planning programs, and Keith Bernard, director of planning, budgeting and research.

The proposal that the Daly City representatives most favored was a new plan to locate the tailtrack south of the city in unincorporated Colma. Schumacher explained that this proposal would not affect any homes and would eliminate only the Alec store, which has been vacant for a number of years.

The Daly City councilmen voiced strong opposition to BART's original plan to run three elevated tracks along the Southern Pacific right-of-way, having them descend gradually under School Street and branch into five tracks as far as Washington Street.

Daly City Community Development Director Donald Fleming said that plan would eliminate six houses and part of the White Lumber Co. Citizens have complained that it would affect Daly City's redevelopment plan.

The Daly City representatives said they might be able to support a second alternative suggested by BART which would swing the tailtrack farther west and would use the California Department of Transportation right-of-way along Junipero Serra Freeway.

Fleming noted that this proposal possibly would eliminate one or two houses, as well as the Balboa Building Materials facility.

The new alternative that Schumacher and Kyriakis suggested is a variation on BART's second alternative. However, instead of ending in Daly City, the tracks would extend further south to Colma.

Goode and Bernard agreed to look into that proposal.

Rehabilitation Officer Criticized

Leaders of the Original Daly City Protective Association escalated their continuing battle for more rehabilitation loans this week by printing charges in their monthly newsletter against M. Barbara Hill, Daly City's rehabilitation loan officer.

Conrad Pavellas, founder of ODCPA, also told the City Council on Aug. 28 that he considered Miss Hill to be incompetent and that he will make a full report on his findings soon.

In "Report to the People," ODCPA's newsletter, an article charges, "After three years of waiting by many applicants, the program is still not off the ground. In all this time, two houses have been completed, one house that was moved is almost refurbished, three emergency roof jobs were done while not taking care of the other work."

City Manager David Rowe concedes that the rehabilitation program, which is designed to make loans available at low interest rates for upgrading homes, got off to a slow start. Although it was begun three years ago, no loans were made until 1977.

But he defended Miss Hill as "competent," and said, "The program is working the way it should. We have without quetion had problems. Our city has not been in the banking business . . . housing loans are difficult packages to put together."

Miss Hill explained that there have been delays in federal funding and other complications. However, she counted seven housing loans that are all or partially completed and 58 loans which are in progress.

Miss Hill said no loans had been funded when she arrived last Nov. 14. Since then, she claims to have worked with about 160 applicants.

Other charges made by ODCPA include:

WAITING LIST — The organization says 90 applicants are waiting for loans.

ADMINISTRATION — ODCPA claims that $526,000 allocated to the program is nearly gone "with very little to show for it. Administration cost has eaten it up."

CONSULTANT — Pavellas remarked that a consultant hired by the city, Connerly and Associates of Sacramento, does 95 percent of the work involved in processing loans. "All that is left is 5 percent for her (Miss Hill) to do and she can't even do that," Pavellas said.

PUBLICITY — Pavellas claims that only ODCPA has made any efforts to publicize the availability of rehabilitation loans.

Miss Hill, who noted she has suffered constant criticism by ODCPA since she was appointed, for reasons she could not fathom, said one problem is that strings are attached to the funds available for rehabilitation loans. The monies fall into two categories:

BLOCK GRANTS — Community Development Block Grants, one federal program, are designed primarily to assist low and moderate income homeowners. A secondary goal is to combat urban blight. The funds may be used for both loans and the administrative costs associated with granting loans. Block grants are supposed to be "loans of the last resort" which are made to persons who can't meet the criteria of other lending sources.

312 LOANS — These federal monies are designed to extend the economic life of houses, with the side benefit that sometimes low income persons may qualify for them. The money may be used only for loans, not for administrative costs.

During its first year, Daly City's rehabilitation project received $89,000 in block grants. During the second year, the program was given $129,000 and in its third year, it received $162,000. In this, its fourth year of operation, the project has been allocated $250,000, but Miss Hill emphasized that the fourth year funds have not yet been spent as they haven't been received.

The city has just learned that it will receive 2)312 loan money for the first time this year. Miss Hill said she expects to receive $300,000 in 312 funds sometime between Oct. 1 and Nov. 15. She said she has 28 loan applications ready to submit as soon as the 312 money comes in.

The prevailing interest rate for 312 loans is 3 percent, compared to 10 percent at some lending institutions. But Miss Hill stressed that there are stringent qualifications for 312 loan applicants. For example, the applicant's monthly payment should not exceed 25 to 30 percent of his or her monthly income. Applicants can't have bad credit histories.

Among the points Miss Hill made in response to charges by ODCPA are:

WAITING LIST — She lists only 36 applicants on a waiting list. Miss Hill said, "They (ODCPA) don't know what process the applications are in because we won't tell them. We think that's an invasion of people's privacy."

ADMINISTRATION — She notes that only $98,890 of the $348,430 spent or encumbered by the rehabilitation project to date went for administrative costs, including consultant fees.

CONSULTANT — Miss Hill said she would like to know how Pavellas arrived at his calculation that she does only 5 percent of the loan processing.

PUBLICITY — She remarked that Daly City is not publicizing the availability of loans at the present because that was the decision of the rehabilitation advisory committee. She added that the project plans to begin seeking more applicatns in about a month.

STAFFING — Miss Hill noted that two workers assigned to her were eliminated June 28 as part of the city's Proposition 13 cutback. All temporary and part-time workers were fired at that time.

Despite the problems the rehabilitation program has undergone, Miss Hill said, "I think the program can go."

Mary's Help Adds New Service

Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City now is providing outpatient psychotherapy through its Social Services Department.

Social Services Department Director Pat Lavin says Licensed Clinical Social Workers Barbara Webb and Aline Bier will meet with clients in their offices at the hospital.

Since legislation passed in January of 1977, licensed clinical social workers have been entitled to provide psychotherapeutic services without working under the aegis of a physician. An lCSW has a masters degree in social work, two years of supervised clinical practice and has passed a state licensing exam.

Although Webb and Bier will see patients who have been referred from within the hospital, Ms. Lavin expects that many patients will be referred by private

Trustees Plan For a Strike

Trustees of the Jefferson Union High School District enacted five resolutions last Thursday that give them emergency powers during the teachers' strike.

The American Federation of Teachers, which represents the teachers, broke off negotiations last Wednesday when they were unable to agree in talks about a wage reopener clause promised for 1977-78.

The resolutions passed by the trustees provide:

Pay will not be granted for leaves of absence unless the employee substantiates the need for a leave with written proof before and after the leave takes place.

Employees requesting pay for a sick leave must sign an affidavit of illness and provide a doctor's certificate of illness.

Employees requesting personal necessity leaves must do so in advance in writing and receive permission from the district. During a strike, such leaves will be allowed only for emergency reasons.

Permission for other leaves also must be received prior to the leave.

Unauthorized leaves may result in disciplinary procedures and loss of salary.

Superintendent Floyd Gonella was granted the authority to hire substitutes at the rate of up to $75 per day. The district's lowest paid teachers receive about $54 per day.

Gonella also was given the authority to hire temporary employees for the duration of the strike, at the same wages classified employees currently receive.

This permission was granted in case members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 377 strike in sympathy with the teachers.

Gonella or his designee will be permitted to close any school facility in the event that the health or safety of students or staff is in jeopardy.

unincorporated Colma, could not be reached for comment.

George Ferretti, who owns adjoining property that might be affected by the plan, remarked today, "If BART decided they want to go through and condemn the property, there's nothing I can do."

Daly City officials have argued that BART's plans for a turnaround are merely a way of getting a foot in the door toward a long-range goal of service to the airport.

But Schumacher said Daly City did not make an issue of that at the Thursday meeting.

"I'm sure they want to go to the airport. It's just that they don't want to discuss it," he said.

Daly City's proposal to locate the tailtrack in unincorporated Colma would bring BART to within 7 miles of the airport — closer than BART has suggested in any of its proposals.

Schumacher stressed that neither BART nor Daly City committed itself to any tailtrack proposal.

"They haven't costed the stuff out and the full BART board has not considered a proposal or acted on it. . . . We were just coming to some kind of sense of direction," he said.

Goode pointed out that it will take at least a year for BART to complete the necessary environmental impact procedures before winning approval of a tailtrack plan.

physicians and community agencies.

In addition, she expects some people will seek psychotherapeutic services at Mary's Help on their own initiative.

The purpose of the oupatient psychotherapy program at Mary's Help is to reach out to people who are motivated to change because they are uncomfortable with some aspect of their lives, Lavin said. "We're also interested in the special problems of children," she added.

"Those people who want or need services we can't provide can learn from us about other available options," Ms. Lavin said.

In February, the Social Services Department conducted an informal survey of North San Mateo County community agencies. The consensus among those contacted was that there is a need for additional mental health services in the county.

This conclusion brought the outpatient psychotherapy program out of the embryo stage where it had been since first suggested by Margaret Sainio, M.D., Psychiatry Division chief at Mary's Help.

The MHH psychotherapy services are reimbursable under some insurance programs and, for those without insurance, there is a sliding fee scale based upon need and income. For information, call the Social Services Department at Mary's Help, 992-4000, ext. 430.

announced that they had reserved a meeting room in South San Francisco to continue talks with the district. Gonella said the district's bargaining team intended to pursue negotiations as soon as possible.

The district's stand in the dispute is that the money in the bond fund may be spent only on construction projects and other school improvements that voters authorized when they approved the bonds.

The district states that transfers of funds into and out of the bond fund:

- Were part of the board of trustees' public record and, therefore, not hidden.
- Were prescribed by the adopted policy of the Board of Trustees and therefore, not improper.
- Involved restricted override civic center funds and, therefore, were not monies that could be negotiated for staff salary adjustments.

AFT claims that the bond fund merely is a holding account which hides General Fund revenues the district should make available for teachers' salaries.

'WHERE DO I GO THIS YEAR?'

Children in six school districts put their toys away, donned their best clothes and filed off to school Tues morning, traditional rites signaling the end of summer vacation. Eleven more school districts will be open for business by the end of the week, with the remainder slated to begin classes on Monday. These children at South School in Hillsborough this morning were searching for their names on homeroom class lists.

Forest Fires Are Contained

Two small forest fires broke out in the mountainous areas west of Skyline Boulevard within less than a half-hour of each other this morning, but both were quickly contained, the California Department of Forestry reported.

The first fire was reported at 6:30 a.m. off of Alpine Road, but was quickly contained by a crew from the nearby Sheriff's Honor Farm, although sheriff's deputies reported flames blazed d up with a "chimney effect" when a redwood tree was ignited.

The second fire was reported shortly after when a 12,000 volt power line dropped near the western end of Bear Gulch Road, northwest of La Londa, energizing a wire fence and touching off a brush fire. Firemen called from Skylonda, Pescadero and Saratoga quickly contained the fire to a half-acre. A spokesman for PG&E reported 44 ranchers and householders were without power for almost four hours.

EFFORTS APPRECIATED

Daly City Police Capt. Roger R. Austin, center, recently presented certificates of appreciation to Marian Graney, left, and Daniel Graney, right, for their assistance in removing injured persons from a car that had crashed into a house July 27. The Graneys saw the crash and went to assist, despite thinking the car might explode. They then gave the victims first aid.

Arnett Blasts Brown's Role

Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, today lashed out at Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. for his handling of Wednesday's state income tax reduction.

"The Legislature worked on this as a bipartisan measure," said Arnett. "And then Jerry Brown goes and surrounds himself with Democrats and tries to take all the credit. That's typical little boy stuff. It is transparent."

Arnett, whose term in Sacramento ends in November, said the tax cut is too small. He had urged that it be at least twice as large as it is.

Said Arnett, "It's about half of what it should be. The way Brown wants to work it is to have the state over-collect and then give you back half of what it ought to."

Arnett, a member of an informal 12-person committee which advises Republican gubernatorial candidate Evelle Younger in his race against Brown, said Brown's credibility is nil on the issue of taxes.

"Jerry wants to buy himself cheap," said Arnett. "He wants to be able to have that extra surplus money available so that when he runs for the Presidency he can dole out the funds to special interest groups in the state."

Arnett declared that, "Brown is wholly and totally politically motivated. It is raw."

Arnett said not only is the tax cut too small but renters need more relief as well.

He said the state's renters' tax credit ought to be increased in the spirit of Proposition 13.

But nothing has come of that proposal, he said. "I would guess it's dead."

Arnett accused the governor of being "a political opportunist." He said a recent poll conducted by the Los Angeles Times indicated that Brown's credibility seems to be weakening statewide. That will be a key issue in the coming campaign, Arnett said.

"Can we believe this guy?" asked Arnett. He added that he believes that Younger can "give Brown a run for his money."

The tax cut, said Arnett, might just be more cannon fodder for the Younger campaign.

Country Music at Cow Palace

Big Time Country '78 at the Cow Palace in Daly City, a two-part concert of country music, Sept. 9 and Sept. 15, has so many top performing and recording artists that two nights are required to present the whole roster of performers, promoters say.

Represented in the person of singer Ray Price is the Country Music Hall of Fame. Price appears with the Moises Calderone Trio and 11-piece concert orchestra Sept. 15 with five additional award-winning country artists.

Hank Thompson, legendary king of country swing, with his Brazos Valley Boys appears on the same bill with Price. Thompson and his band has sold more than 30 million records in his 30-year career.

Don Gibson, a country music top composer and a leading musician and singer, appears Sept. 9 on the program starring, in addition, country's youngest (19 years) major performer, Tanya Tucker; million-record seller Freddy Fender; the new band, "Asleep at the Wheel," which originated in the Bay Area and now is based in Austin, Tex.

Also on the Sept. 15th headliner bill are Eddie Rabbitt, named Best New Entertainer of the Year (1977) by Country Music Magazine; Grammy Award Winner Jody Miller and Joe Stampley, country's fastest rising young "progressive" artist.

Appearing with Hank Thompson Sept. 15 is the woman country fiddler Jana Jae, familiar to television "Hee Haw" viewers plus her many appearances at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry.

Johnny Paycheck completes the bill of country artists Sept. 9.

Master of ceremonies for both evenings is new Nashville comedian Cotton Ivy, who is being introduced to West Coast audiences.

Top ticket price for each concert is $8.50, scaled to $5.50. Tickets are on sale at the Cow Palace box office and at all major local ticket agencies.

Proceeds of Big Time Country' 78 benefit United Cerebral Palsy Association of San Francisco.

Schools Offer Cuts

Several North County school districts and schools and the county schools office Division of Special Education have adopted a policy of free and reduced-price meals and free milk for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch and Special Milk programs.

Among those are the San Bruno Park, Jefferson and Laguna Salada elementary districts, the Jefferson Union High School District and All Souls Catholic School, the latter in South San Francisco.

Local school officials have adopted family size and income criteria for determining eligibility.

Children from families whose income is at or below minimum levels are eligible for free meals or reduced-price meals. An extra half-pint of free milk is available to those who are eligible for free meals. Families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 percent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses have been urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, all applications forms will state that school officials may, for cause, verify that the furnished information is true and correct, and that deliberate misrepresentation may subject the applicant to prosecution under state and federal criminal statutes. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children also are eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for them, the family should contact the school.

Under the provisions of the policy, school officials will determine eligibility. If parents are dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, they may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin.

Class of 1981 Faces Competency Tests

Something beyond the traditional classroom work will be required of the Class of 1981 in the San Mateo Union High School District.

In that year, all students graduating must pass tests demonstrating competence in the basic skills of reading, writing and mathematics.

According to Heather Sterner, a member of a citizens committee which created a set of standards for the tests, the key question considered was: "Is this skill necessary to function adequately out in the world?"

The requirements have been more than three years in the making. A year ago, the state required that all districts set graduation standards in basic skills, effective with the Class of 1981.

The tests don't measure whether a student will succeed in college or at a particular kind of job. They are really an early warning system which can provide teachers and counselors with information about a student's progress.

Freshmen and sophomores will take the tests but they aren't expected to pass them. Students are expected to pass them in their junior or senior years.

It is anticipated that about 95 percent of the district's students will be able to pass the tests by their senior year.

District officials have stated that most students will surpass those minimal skills.

Many of the students will be able to pass the tests by their sophomore year.

Last year's freshmen took the tests for the first time. Their scores will be announced in October. Most of them are not expected to have passed.

Fair Trade Laws Corked

Liquor Prices Drop, Drop, Drop

While it's advantageous to the consumer,
Some small store owners will be brought to their knees

By HEIDI VAN ZANT

It's the greatest thing to hit the California drinking man since the end of Prohibition.

Liquor prices in this state are down.

Stores are featuring weekly specials on booze much like those run for beef, bacon and orange juice.

For the first time in more than 30 years, liquor prices in California have not been controlled. To hear some people tell it, this change means that the end of independently owned liquor stores is just around the corner.

The reason for this gloom is that fair trade laws for liquor were struck down by the courts in June, meaning stores now set their own price as long as it is at least 6 percent above cost.

While large chain stores can buy in quantity and get a reduction because of their bulk buying power, the so-called mom and pop stores cannot do this.

Small liquor store owners say they need to mark their booze up 25 percent to pay the bills and stay in business. They are competing against stores that discount the price down to the rock-bottom mark-up of 6 percent.

Buz Freitas, vice president of the California Liquor Dealers Association and owner of a Los Gatos liquor store, makes no bones about it.

"I would say that by Jan. 1, 20 percent of the independent dealers will be out of business," he said.

He and others in the liquor industry predict that the repeal of fair trade eventually mean the large stores will have a monopoly on the market.

The phrase "little guy" is used a lot by those discussing the new market for liquor. One of those little guys is John Sans, co-owner of the Liquor Locker in San Bruno.

"It's gotten to the point where people come in and start quibbling over a dime," he said, adding that his prices have stayed the same, but he is offering some specials.

Sans said he previously had mixed feelings about controlled liquor prices. Now he has definite feelings about keeping minimum prices.

"There are going to be a lot of little people hurt and I might be one of them," he said. "But right now I am surviving."

Because he and others no longer have what he called a "captive audience," the smaller stores must cultivate their business by offering the personal touches larger stores do not, Sans said.

While it is advantageous to the consumer, he said, the change is going to bring some small store owners to their knees.

"I know a lot of them that are going under right now," he said.

Another liquor store owner, John Simi, said he is getting calls every day from cost-conscious buyers who want to know where the best price is.

The entire stock of his Ernie's Liquors in South San Francisco has not been reduced, he said, although he now is able to advertise monthly specials.

Before, there was a 25 percent mark-up on liquor at his store, but now the average is about 18 percent, Simi said.

What the consumer does not realize, he said, is that while they expect the price to drop the retailer may be paying more than ever for it at the wholesale level.

During the upcoming holidays, Simi predicts the public will "see ads that will curl your hair."

His guess is that the larger stores will fight it out and the market for discount stores will be reduced to one or two.

Smaller stores will not go broke, he said, "but you will see a gradual erosion of the mom and pop stores."

The owner of Walt's Community Spirits in Redwood City said the only way he can survive is to offer people a convenient place to shop.

"I can't buy big and I can't afford to drop my prices," said Walt Young, adding, "It's just a bummer all the way around."

The public has an incorrect view of the business, he said.

"People have the idea that liquor stores have a huge profit, but that's not true," he said, noting that he paid $38,000 for his license recently and the value has dropped $8,000 because no one wants a liquor store anymore.

Liquor prices at King's Market in Burlingame have been cut 10 percent across the board and specials are run on a monthly basis, according to owner Ken Ayoob.

Business dropped initially when customers went to the discount stores for their liquor, but they are coming back.

"They took advantage of it at first and went wild," he said. "It's just like a kid turned loose in a candy store."

Prices at one Pacifica supermarket have not and will not drop, because "we cannot afford to," said the daughter of the owner.

She asked that her name not be used and that the name of the small grocery store also be left out.

Because they cannot drop prices, the store must depend on its role as a convenient place to shop, she said, adding that some customers have complained about prices staying the same, "but there's nothing we can do."

Eliminating fair trade laws for liquor "really hurts the little guy," she said.

One person who doesn't see it that way at all is the owner of one of the Peninsula's largest discount liquor stores. He also asked that his name not be used.

He thinks the change is good for the industry and that the fear of stores going out of business is "greatly overrated."

"If a store owner has just been sitting back and waiting for customers to walk in the door so he can ring up a sale, he's in trouble," the owner said.

Now stores will vie for customers, he said, and the ones that are in convenient locations and those that offer attractive specials can compete with the large discount houses.

Business in the liquor department of Walgreen's in South San Francisco has doubled, according to the manager of the store.

"Customers seem very price-conscious," he said, noting that some are stocking up on their supply now because they fear prices may go back up.

An across-the-board cut has been made in liquor prices, the manager said, with prices settling in the middle between that asked at a discount liquor store and that asked when fair trade was in effect.

Prices at Petrini's supermarket in San Mateo have remained the same, although specials now are being offered, according to the manager of the liquor department.

The manager, who did not want his name used, said he feels sorry for the independent retailers, because for them "it's down the drain."

Unlike Petrini's, he said, they cannot buy in bulk and, therefore, do not have that kind of savings to pass onto the customer.

"A lot of stores wanted to lower their prices, but you knock the little guy out," he said. "You're going to end up with a monopoly."

Millbrae Says Okay Despite Some Objection

Efforts to block the opening of a discount liquor store near St. Dunstan's Church in Millbrae were rejected by the City Council Thursday.

The council, after listening to other local liquor store dealers urge that the city not allow the discount store, said it lacked sufficient evidence to support a protest of M.L.M. Enterprise, Inc's state liquor license application.

However, on a split 3-2 vote, the council did authorize its staff to check M.L.M.'s background. The motion was opposed by Mayor Tullio Bertini and Councilwoman Mary Griffin.

John Guidice, a local liquor dealer, told the council that the heavy business volume and frequent delivery truck stops would increase traffic congestion near St. Dunstan's Church and create a potentially dangerous situation for nearby school children. He also said M.L.M. operates a discount liquor store in San Francisco under the name Consumer Liquors.

Seniors' Property Tax Claims Lagging

Senior citizen property tax assistance claims for 1978 still are lagging far behind the number filed at this stage of the filing period last year, according to Irene Cameron, president of the San Bruno chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons.

The state Franchise Tax Board reported there were 280,000 claims at this time last year compared with only 191,000 to date this year, she said.

"Apparently homeowners are confused about the senior citizens tax assistance programs," she said. "Many homeowners have not used the claim forms mailed with the instruction booklet by the tax board in mid-June. Almost 400,000 forms were mailed to people who qualified last year or who inquired about the program."

Assistance has not been phased out or changed except that the filing period is one month later this year, she said. For both the senior citizens property tax assistance and senior citizens rent assistance, the filing period began June 16 and ends Oct. 2.

Mrs. Cameron said volunteers are available to assist with claims or to answer questions about the eligibility requirements.

Volunteers will be in the basement of the San Bruno library every Monday through Oct. 2, from 10 a.m. to noon and from 2 to 4 p.m., to assist with claims.

Mrs. Cameron pointed out that claims must be renewed each year.

Homeowners must have been 62 or older as of Dec. 31, 1977, must have owned and occupied their homes and have had $12,000 or less total household income for 1977. Reimbursements can vary from 4 to 96 percent of the property tax paid, depending on income.

Renters also must have been 62 or older as of Dec. 31, 1977, must have paid at least $50 a month rent and have had $5,000 or less total household income for 1977. The annual one-time rent assistance payment can vary from $9 to $211, depending on income.

Persons should bring proof of age, their 1977-78 property tax bills, income records and Social Security number.

The assistance is offered by San Bruno AARP volunteers, Chapter 2891.

"This is what AARP is all about," Mrs. Cameron said, "to help ourselves to stay active and healthy and to help others. And this philosophy can be used at any age, not just for seniors."

We Caught the Spirit of This Convention

Perspective

By ARVILLE FINACOM

We joined the human stream slowly flowing up the ramp. It was several minutes before we came out on the floor of the convention hall and began another slow ascent, this time up the steep stairs from lower to upper balcony.

Finally we were settled. Dead center from where we sat and filling one end of the enormous hall was the stage, decorated with massive scarlet, gold, green and purple banners, filled with the risers, chairs and instruments necessary for a choral/symphonic production.

"IT'S LIKE being inside a gigantic beehive," commented one of my sons. I nodded. "And the proportion of the sexes is about the same, too," he continued. I nodded again, smiled and countered, "What else did you expect?"

It was early August in Minneapolis, Minn., and we were at the opening session of the Sixth Triennial Convention of the American Lutheran Church Women. At that moment we were among nearly 10,000 people, some male visitors such as my husband and sons, but mostly women who would, as I, attend the following full days of convention events.

ALCW conventions begin with the spectacular, often a premiere production commissioned for the day. As ALCW Executive Director Julie Stein says, "It is a happy occasion when religion and the arts walk hand in hand within the church and when one is used to enrich the experience of the other."

THIS YEAR the commissioned work was "Beloved Son," an oratorio composed by ALC pastor-poet Herb Brokering, with original music by jazz pianist-composer Dave Brubeck, performed by members of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, two choirs, an exceptionally talented baritone soloist, LeRoy Lehr, and the "New Brubeck Quartet" — father Dave on piano, son Darius on keyboard, son Chris on electric bass and trombone, son Danny on drums — plus the "performing audience."

Imagine beginning by reading aloud a Brokering-written religious parody matching the meter of Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha" and concluding an hour later by singing 10,000 strong a dedication hymn whose syncopated beat combines the essences of both rock and jazz, while in between, soloist, chorus, orchestra and quartet, progressing through a multitude of musical styles, describe the Baptism of Christ, his Passion, Death and Resurrection.

Next day the local press characterized the oratorio as "eclectic" rather than "distinguished" and predicted no sustaining popularity for it. I would agree, saying that it was quite difficult to make the rapid musical mood jumps required among jazz, 12-tone modern, classical, popular, rock and the distinctively original "pure Brubeck." But the value of the production was not intended to be in its permanent popularity, merely in its "tone setting" quality as convention opener. And, as such, it succeeded.

FOR THE next two days, in formal sessions and outside of them one could hear snatches of the dedication song hummed, whistled and sung. If with nothing else, convention goers returned home with the haunting melody of "Jesus, Meet Us at the Center" echoing in their heads.

The convention offered its close to 9,800 registered participants much more than musical memories although these, ranging from the full-voiced gospel "Sounds of Blackness" to the reed-like, sing-song, Bible melody intonation of Indian speaker Katakshamma Raj on Global Night, highlighted the proceedings for the many music enthusiasts in attendance.

Jerry Evenrud, ALC Director for Parish Music and the Arts, familiar to local ALC Women as featured guest at this year's spring convention of the Peninsula Conference, was in charge of music for the convention and, as song leader, allowed no "visiting" breaks during general convention proceedings.

AS PROGRAM breaks did occur to allow time for speakers, officials and others to get on and off the stage, Evenrud, accompanied by Dr. Margaret Sihler Anderson on the hall's powerful organ, led songs ranging from traditional hymns and patriotic melodies to the contemporary settings in the newly-published Lutheran Book of Worship.

Forty-one conferences, each given four times, contained more than denominational dialogue. Although traditional areas were covered — "How to Approach Bible Study" for one and "An Introduction to the New Book of Worship" for another — extraordinary emphasis was on the daily involvement of Lutheran men, women and children and youth in society around them. Aging, divorce, illness, conflict, marriage, health, singleness, healing, parenting, loneliness, nutrition, child abuse, prisons, alcoholism, money management, feminism, even "enjoying predictable life stages," were discussed.

The changing role of clerics, both male and female ministers, in partnership with rather than in authority over laity, provided focus for several sessions.

THE WORSHIP aspect of the church was not neglected. Conferences dealt with music, art, drama, prayer, ceremony, ecumenism and the spirit in today's church. Perhaps the strongest theme permeating the gathering was that of global stewardship and mission, here at home as well as in foreign countries.

Although convention attendance was far from evenly divided among the 18 regional districts of the ALC — eight of which in Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and North Dakota accounted for nearly 70 percent of total attendance — 41 states were represented, many by people such as I who fit the convention days into the larger scheme of vacation travel.

Among those who attended from San Mateo County, Barbara Milburn of San Mateo and I plan to sum up the convention publicly for anyone interested. Next Tuesday, Sept. 12, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at Hope Lutheran Church, 600 42nd Ave., San Mateo, Mrs. Milburn will bring her report. Mine will be given Sept. 26 at 7:30 p.m. at Calvary Lutheran Church, Santa Lucia and Cypress avenues, Millbrae. We welcome all participants, Lutheran or not, who are interested in experiencing convention through our reminiscences.

CONVENTIONS are not new to me, but somehow the spirit of this one was. Despite differences in backgrounds, cultures and races, despite regionalism, sectionalism and church district pride, despite differences in age, lifestyle and basic interests, for those two-plus days in early August we became "one in Spirit." Perhaps that's what being an ALC woman is all about.

NELL NORTON

THE DIET CORNER

By ELISE GENDAR

Love is, according to a widely-admired cartoonist, something warm from the oven.

And I had a sudden vision of Mother Love in full bloom. A group of children, clustered around a mother, mouths agape, as she plopped something sweet into each one!

Now I ask you, is that mother love? If it is, then the complex becomes simplified. But do you want your child to visualize you as an automatic food dispenser whenever the word love is mentioned? And if you say a firm "No!" to the request for yummie-wummies as you trot through the supermarket, are you afraid your young one will think you don't love?

I wonder why it isn't easier to caption the cartoon, "Love is saying I love you?" So why not a whispered endearment and a quick hug to staunch the tears of childhood hurt and disappointment? Soothing as sugar, and much more long-lasting than an oven-warmed cookie, I promise.

Love is giving your child the best possible start in life. Ah-hah, you say, here she goes again. And you are right. The best gift you can give for a healthy future is the gift of learning how to eat well and properly. By well, I mean solid, nourishing foods that satisfy all the requirements of growing bodies. By properly, I mean eating the correct amounts of these foods in the correct place at the correct time.

Does this mean that you can't pamper your child with the ordinary delights of childhood? It does not! It means that you adjust these delights to what you know is best for a growing body. Every kid alive loves ices. Here is a recipe for a frosty dessert (much better for everyone in the family. Down with butterfat) for the sort of special occasion food that all family tables should display:

LEMON/LIME FROST

1 package lemon or lime low-cal gelatin
1 cup boiling water
9 packets artificial sweetener
2½ tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup evaporated skim milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine gelatin, water, artificial sweetener and lemon juice until syrupy. In large mixing bowl, beat evaporated skim milk on high speed until very thick. Add vanilla and gelatin mixture and continue beating until doubled in volume. Pour into containers and cover.

Let's be very loving to our children, shall we? Let's see that they never suffer through being fat. My own quick caption would be:

Love is . . . caring enough about your children perhaps to feed them correctly.

Good morning, good cooks.

Pizza cheese quiche with tossed salad and a glass of wholesome milk is sure to be a favorite "his and her" menu. That's why the consumer information specialists from dairyland have come up with this great new quiche recipe perfectly proportioned for two. Furthermore, it's been worked out for both microwave and conventional cooking. So take your choice according to preference and the kitchen's capabilities.

The microwave version calls for cooking the crust (conveniently made from a mix) first for four minutes. The savory filling — ricotta and jack cheese mixed with eggs, pepperoni and oregano — requires another 10 minutes in the microwave. As it cooks, the cheeses melt and blend with the other ingredients into a tender, flavorful filling.

You'll be surprised how much it really does taste like pizza! Total microwave cooking time is about 15 minutes but you'll want to let the quiche stand another 5 minutes to firm up a bit for serving. To cook this recipe conventionally, allow 37 minutes. Either way the quiche is quick and easy enough to whip up any night of the week.

Microwave chefs quickly discover that cheese is a natural for microwaving. Besides melting smoothly and quickly, cheese is a great medium for blending together other ingredients into a harmonious whole. The flavor of natural cheese, like ricotta and jack, is always smooth and mellow when heated by microwave.

MICROWAVE PIZZA QUICHE

½ stick pie crust mix
1 tablespoon water
1 cup ricotta cheese
3 eggs
¼ cup thinly sliced pepperoni, diced
.1 teaspoon oregano, crumbled
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup grated Monterey jack cheese

Prepare pie crust mix as package directs, using one tablespoon water. Roll out to fit 7-inch ceramic quiche dish. Fit pastry into dish, making edge even with top of dish. Hook top edge of dough over edge of dish at intervals to prevent slipping down into dish. Prick bottom. Cook with full power in microwave oven 2 minutes. Turn dish halfway around. Cook 2 minutes longer.

Mix the one cup ricotta cheese, three eggs, fourth-cup pepperoni, one teaspoon oregano, fourth-teaspoon salt and half-cup of the jack cheese. (Save the remaining jack cheese to sprinkle over top of cooked quiche.) Spoon the cheese mixture into shell.

Cook with medium power 10 minutes, rotating dish halfway around after 5 minutes. Sprinkle with remaining fourth-cup jack cheese. Cook with full power one minute longer or until cheese is melted. Let stand 5 minutes to firm slightly before serving. Makes 2 servings.

Conventional method: Bake pie shell in 450-degree oven 7 minutes or until golden. Reduce heat to 350 degrees. Spoon cheese mixture as above into shell. Bake in 350-degrees oven 30 minutes or until center is set. Sprinkle with remaining fourth-cup jack cheese.

Confusing State for Him/Her

By D. R. BARNETT, DVM

QUESTION: We have bantam chickens, some of them are prize-winners. Originally, we had several roosters, but we had to get rid of them because they crowed and the neighbors complained. Now we notice that one of the hens is crowing. Is this normal? We have a great regard for the hens we have and would hate to get rid of her. What makes her crow? She sounds exactly like the roosters. P.G.

ANSWER: No, it is not normal for her to crow. She probably is actually a rooster or an individual with both testicular (male) and ovarian (female) tissue in his body and the male hormones are becoming dominant. My parents raised quite a few chickens when I was a child and I can remember this same phenomenon but usually as the bird matured it took on more and more characteristics of a rooster until it became obvious that she was really a he. I can give you no suggestion as to how to stop the crowing. If it bothers the neighbors you probably will have to get rid of her/him.

QUESTION: I just bought a parakeet about two months ago. I came home the other day and he was dead. I don't know why he died, he wasn't very old. I noticed that in the past week he had been at the bottom of the cage and when he got on his perch he would ruffle his feathers and shake like he was cold. He was not in a draft. We have a cat, but we keep him away from the bird. Once he did attack the cage. Do you think the disturbance by the cat caused the bird to die? N.B.

ANSWER: Parakeets are very sensitive to respiratory and intestinal infections and I would suspect your bird died from one or the other or both of these conditions. I doubt if the cat frightened him enough to cause his death.

QUESTION: Our patio fence is made out of rough, bark-covered redwood planks and the squirrels are stripping off the bark. Is there any substance we could spray on the fence to repel the squirrels? M.N.

ANSWER: I don't know if anything that would repel the squirrels that would not also be toxic to them, or very unsightly on the fence. Perhaps you could feed them elsewhere in your yard or hang some wind chimes near the fence you want to protect and see if that would scare them off. I doubt the noise will frighten them for very long because the squirrels in my backyard are frightened by hardly anything.

My dog keeps them interested by chasing them but they are really only playing games with her and teasing her. Maybe that's the answer — get a barking dog. But your neighbors probably won't appreciate that solution to the problem.

The Gamesman

Old Game, New Way

By RICHARD C. MOON

As we probe our memories, searching for those games we were taught to play by older brothers and sisters, many of us will recall tic-tac-toe as being one of the earliest games mastered. For thousands of years this game and its many variations have been enjoyed universally. And while it is a good way to amuse children on long, rainy afternoons, adults also can spend a pleasant hour or two playing this elementary game of circles and crosses.

In Britain the game is called Noughts and Crosses and the Japanese version of the same game is called Gomuku. In Africa, Asia and South America variations of tic-tac-toe also are played. It is one of those simple games that is likely to endure as long as mankind.

GAME manufacturers, well aware of the popularity of tic-tac-toe, have produced literally hundreds of products based on the same, simple principle — connecting three symbols in a straight line while preventing an opponent from doing the same. Such games have been conceived and structured in varying qualities and with varying degrees of success on the game market. One of the best examples is "Triple Up" by Ideal, which is designed for ages 8 to adult; two players are required to play.

Triple Up is a three-dimensional game, much more demanding than the conventional pencil and pad contest. The object still is to connect three in a row, but there is a twist. The board has four rows instead of the usual three and is suspended above a base that contains different colored balls on top of the springs.

The balls in the first row are red; players use these as "shooters" to propel alternating black and white balls up shafts and into place on the board. One player tries to connect three black balls while his opponent tries to connect three white ones. The difficulty arises when an opponent foils a well-planned strategy by sending one of his balls up the shaft to bump yours out of place.

PLAYERS constantly must be aware that a skilled opponent may disrupt his pattern with well-executed shots. A successful player, therefore, will formulate both plans and alternating plans in attempting to be the first to connect three balls in a row.

Help Wanted

The following agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burlingame, Daly City and Redwood City.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — A training session for volunteers interested in assisting in the Pacifica or San Mateo clinics will begin Sept. 11 from 9 a.m. to noon. An interview is required prior to the training.

NURSING HOME OMBUDSMAN — Volunteers are needed to receive complaints and inquiries about some aspect of nursing home care and explore the problem and seek a solution with the help and guidance of the director. Training is provided and will begin Sept. 15 in the morning. Volunteers are needed especially from Daly City and the Coastside.

MILLS HIGH SCHOOL — Tutors are needed for remedial math for the fall semester to tutor on a one-to-one basis in the classroom. Orientation is provided and the class begins at 8:15 a.m. The days may be ranged.

FRIENDS TO PARENTS — Volunteers are needed to friend isolated and inexperienced young parents in North San Mateo County. Volunteers assist on a one-to-one basis to help the parent assume control of their own lives. Training is provided and will begin Sept. 25 in the evening.

Additional information about these and other volunteer opportunities may be obtained by calling the Volunteer Bureau at the main office at 342-0801, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Interviews will be made in Daly City by appointment. A project of the Assistance League of San Mateo County, the Bureau shares in the United Way of the Bay Area and is funded, in part, by the County of San Mateo.

Holy Angels School Women Start Work

Holy Angels School opened today with an hour orientation for the children. Holy Angels Women's Guild at that time had a coffee and get-together for all new and first-grade mothers. The Guild's new president, Audrey Zanobini, introduced her fellow board members, Holy Angels Pastor, the Rev. Edward Cleary, and the school principal, Sister Helen.

Thursday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall will be the first meeting of the Women's Guild for the year. This is a new night for guild members and all future meetings this year will be on the first Thursday of each month.

The rest of the board consists of Sandy Buglar, vice president; Adeline Nagtalon, treasurer; Pat Schmidt, recording secretary; Leslie LaCoco, corresponding secretary, and Julia Fitzgerald, membership chairman. All women of the parish are invited to attend this meeting, at which plans for the year will be discussed.

Membership coffees will be the week of Sept. 18 to 21 in the daytime and evening to accommodate working women, in San Francisco, Marin, and northern Peninsula homes.

A B'nai B'rith Women International officer will be the guest speaker at special events Sept. 27 at Temple Beth Sholom in San Francisco at 8 p.m., and Sept. 28 at Tanglewood Club House in San Jose at 8 p.m. All interested women are invited to attend any of the membership functions without cost. Admission for BBW members for the San Francisco special event is $1.50.

St. Martin's Parish Slates Music Program

Paul A. Rosendall, organist-choirmaster at St. Martin's Episcopal Church from 1970-1973, has returned to work with the new Rector to co-ordinate the type of English service music which prevailed in this parish during his last tenure.

Rosendall's early musical training was with W. B. Nielsen, A.A.G.O., University of Oregon. He studied with Richard I. Purvis and was organist and master of choristers at Grace Cathedral, San Francisco, for four years. He also studied theory, harmony and counterpoint with Robert Keaton of the Eastman School of Music.

Over the past 20 years, Rosendall held organist-choirmaster positions in several large congregations in the Bay Area, and most recently established a choral program in the Parish of Mater Dolorosa, South San Francisco.

Choir practice is held each Thursday evening beginning at 7 at the church, 777 Southgate Ave., Daly City. The choir year begins the second week of September and concludes the third week of June. All persons are welcome to join this choir. It is not necessary to be a member of St. Martin's Parish to participate in this program.

Curr Wins Knights' Top Honor

Grand Knight Cliff Hollander announced that Thomas Curr was named "Man of the Year" by Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, at their annual Fireworks/Awards Banquet recently at Nick's Rockaway, Pacifica.

It was the third such award for Curr, who has been a member of the order for 12 years and a Past Grand Knight of the Daly City-based council. He was instrumental in leading the council, as youth director, to a first place finish in their division in youth activities at the 1978 K of C California State Council Convention.

In addition, he was the public relations director, bulletin editor, and yearbook co-chairman for which the council won awards as "Best in the State" at the convention.

He currently is the secretary of the St. Francis Chapter and Pro Life Secretary for the State Council.

A plaque also was presented to Enrique Lamout, PGK, by Hollander, for excellence in membership recruitment during the 1977-1978 term.

IN MEMORY

A framed lithograph of tall ships was presented recently to the Daly City Library by the Friends of the Library in memory of the late Arthur Armitage, former director of the Friends. The lithograph, painted and signed by artist Kipp Soldwedel, is called "Operation Sail" and is of a gathering of sailing ships from all over the world in New York Harbor in 1976. It will be hung in the Westlake Library. At the presentation were, left to right, Eileen Kenny, Friends hospitality chairwoman; Ethel Walter, Friends past president; and Rose Marie Pigott, library assistant.

Input on Airport Noise Promised

A new era in airport-community relations was promised Thursday night by San Mateo County Airport Land Use Committee Chairman Art Lepore.

He said Richard Heath, director of San Francisco International Airport, has agreed to participation in airport planning by representatives of cities around the airport and by the public.

Addressing a joint meeting of the Airport Land Use Committee and the San Mateo County Planning Commission, Lepore said Heath had agreed to have staff representatives of San Mateo County cities work with airport staff committees on specific problems.

Members of the public and elected officials from San Mateo County communities will be welcomed at policy planning sessions, Lepore said.

During the Thursday night session at the Burlingame Library, however, citizens who attended to comment on airport noise found they could not really do so.

Residents of San Bruno, Millbrae and Hillsborough attempted to comment on airport noise during a county Planning Commission report on progress being made to adopt a new "noise element" to the county general plan. The residents were told the meeting was not a public hearing, and that it was not the proper time to make comments.

They also were told the ALUC members at the joint meeting had not previously seen the half-inch thick document and were not prepared to discuss it.

Planning Commission Chairwoman Lore Radisch said her group will hold a public hearing on the noise element Sept. 13 at county headquarters in Redwood City.

Staffers said the noise element covers only non-city areas of the county, and residents from San Bruno and Millbrae asked whether their comments were germane.

County Planner David Hale said their comments might relate to the noise element on the basis of noise generating in a non-city area, the airport, and having an impact in a city.

Airport Land Use Committee Chairman Lepore said the complaints would be more effective at meetings of the Joint Land Use Study being conducted by a committee representing both San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

He said that study will not be completed for 18 months, as it is operating on an extended schedule which allows plenty of time for public comment.

Planning Commission leader Radisch said her group had intended to await completion of the Joint Land Use Study before adopting a noise element to the county general plan.

Instead, the noise element is to be adopted without including the San Francisco International Airport information, and later amended to include it.

Citizens insisted that the noise element contain goals for the airport's noise effects, however.

Planner Hale said the goals could be a simple statement that the airport will be required to comply with state noise laws.

Residents responded that the requirements should be more specific.

"The airport should be required to do what we want it to," they said.

Ryan, Welch Disagree on Kemp-Roth

Rep. Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo, says the Kemp-Roth bill, which proposed a reduction in federal taxes by 30 percent over a 3-year period, would feed the flames of inflation. His Republican challenger, David Welch, says the measure could increase productivity and earnings, thus benefiting both taxpayers and the government.

The two candidates made their remarks Tuesday before a meeting of the San Mateo-Burlingame Board of Realtors. The Kemp-Roth bill was recently voted down in the Senate, but may be revived before the upcoming Nov. 7 general election.

Immunization Needed for School Entry

An immunization law applying to school children is being enforced this year throughout the state. Parents in the Jefferson School District have been advised that elementary and high school children are required to have verification for immunization against measles, polio (4 doses), diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), and tetanus (4 or 5 doses).

Pupils may be exempted on the basis of medical reasons or personal beliefs. Schools now must exclude children for lack of this required immunization.

New, small record cards will be furnished by doctors and health departments for eventual use by parents as a permanent record of their child's immunization.

If the game ends in a tie, credit will be given only to contestants who predict the tie.

2. Write the total net yards (rushing and passing) that you think the designated team will make in the box provided. This estimate will be used only in case of ties between two or more contestants.

3. Clip and mail the entry blank to:

A Mentally-Tough Course

When fans think of major league baseball playing brothers, the name that immediately springs to mind for most of them is the Dimaggios — Joe, Dom and Vince. If you're a little younger and a Giant fan you might think first of the Alous — Felipe, Matty and Jesus, who for one bright and shining day all played in the same outfield for the Giants. Then there were the Boyers, Ken, Cloyd and Clete, and several younger kids in the family who played in the minors. Contemporary fans immediately would name the Cruz brothers — Heity, Tommy and Jose.

The greatest baseball-playing family of them all often is forgotten, perhaps because they played in the early part of the century. But the five Delahantys certainly weren't obscure players. That's right. Five. And a sixth, Willie, was a minor league standout drafted by the Dodgers who was beaned just before he was to report, an injury which ended his baseball career shortly thereafter.

GREATEST of the Delahantys, of course, was Big Ed, the oldest of the boys, who is in the Hall of Fame. He has the fourth best all-time lifetime batting average, .346, and hit over .400 three times. He played mainly in the outfield from 1888 to 1903, primarily with the Phillies.

Jim Delahanty, 12 years younger than Ed, played mostly second base from 1901 to 1915 for eight different National and American League clubs, and had a lifetime BA of .283. He was the only one of the brothers to participate in a World Series, and he did it up right by being the Series' leading hitter (.346) for Detroit in the 1909 battle with Pittsburgh.

Frank "Pudgie" Delahanty, six years younger than Jimmy, played the outfield for six years for five National and American League teams, hitting only .226. The "in-between" brothers, Joe and Tom, each lasted only three years. Tom played just before the turn of the century with four NL teams (those Delahantys loved to travel) as an infielder, hitting .239. Joe played from 1907-09 for the Cardinals (the only brother to stick with one team during his entire big league career) as an outfielder, hitting .238.

ONLY ONE other family came close to the Delahantys, and that was another Irish family — the O'Neills, a quartet of big league brothers. Steve was the most famous, as a catcher (1911-26) with Cleveland, Boston, the Yanks and the Browns, but who was perhaps best-known for his 13 years as a manager.

The other three brothers, Jack, Jim and Mike, played a total of only 12 years in the bigs. Jack was a catcher, Jim an infielder and Mike a pitcher-outfielder.

Brother trios have been relatively common in the majors, there having been 14 such contingents.

At last count, there have been 292 brother duos in the big leagues.

THERE HAVE been 81 father-son combinations in big league baseball, but only in four cases have fathers had as many as two sons follow them to the big time: Larry Gilbert begat Charley and Tookie (Harold); Sam Hairston spawned Jerry and John; George Sisler sired Dave and Dick; and Dixie Walker sent up Dixie and Harry.

The Sislers and Walkers are undoubtedly the most prominent of this group: the father outshining the sons in the former case, the opposite being true in the latter.

George Sisler, of course, is the Hall of Fame first baseman from the old St. Louis Browns, the flawless fielder with the .340 lifetime batting average and two American League hitting crowns (.407 and .420) and the record for most hits in a season (257).

But his sons didn't do badly. Dick, also a first baseman, hit .276 in eight years with the Cards, Phillies and Cincy, and played in two World Series, something his father never once got.

BROTHER Dave pitched, mainly as a reliever, for seven years with the Red Sox, Detroit, the Senators and Cincy, winning 38, losing 44 with a lifetime ERA of 4.33.

Father Dixie Walker never came close to achieving the records and fame of his two sons. A righthanded pitcher (like his sons, he batted southpaw), he was with Washington from 1909-12, with a 24-30, 3.52 lifetime record.

Son Dixie, of course, was the wildly popular "People's Cherce" as an outfielder in Brooklyn. During his 18-year career he had a lifetime .306 BA and won a batting title in 1944, hitting .357, his highest mark.

HARRY "THE HAT" was an outfielder-first baseman with St. Louis, Cincy, Philadelphia and Chicago who hung up a .296 lifetime average in 11 seasons and also won a batting crown when he hit .363 in 1947. He has, of course, since gone on to be a manager and one of the most respected batting instructors in baseball.

Larry Gilbert's only claim to fame was that he was a part-time outfielder as a rookie on the 1914 Miracle Braves, hitting .268 in 60 games. But after the next season, when he hit .151, his big league career ended, at age 23.

His elder son, Charley, fared better, spending six years in the majors as an outfielder in the early and middle '40s with Brooklyn, the Phillies and the Cubs. He hit .229.

TOOKIE, 10 years younger than Charley, broke in with a big splash with the Giants in 1950, barely 21 years old. The lefty swinging (like his father and brother) first baseman was supposed to be the Giants' first baseman for the next decade, but he hit .220 in 113 games that season and didn't make it back to the Giants until 1953, when he hit .169 in 70 games and then ended his career.

Sam Hairston lasted for just two games as a catcher for the White Sox in 1950, going 2-for-5. Oldest son John followed suit, playing one game as a catcher, one as an outfielder for the other Chicago team, the Cubs, in 1969. He was 1-for-4. Jerry, an outfielder-first baseman, put in three years with the White Sox from 1973-75 as a part-timer (hitting .268), went to Japan, and came back briefly last summer.

BASEBALL MISCELLANY: It's hard to imagine what kind of a season Jack Clark would be having if he were with the Reds or Dodgers, surrounded by experienced, highly publicized players, the spotlight off him. He would not be expected to carry those clubs, as he is expected to do for the Giants. A heavy burden for a 22-year-old in a spot perhaps unprecedented in baseball history. Name another player that young who was considered the key man in a close pennant race?

Don't know how Charley Finley does it, but he does it. He gets rid of one designated hitter, Willie Horton, who is hitting .300 and driving in runs, and picks up another, Rico Carty, who proceeds to hit .400 for Finley, and drive in even more runs than Horton. And Horton goes to Toronto and quits hitting!

BASEBALL TRIVIA:

1. Name Boog Powell's half-brother, who played for Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Kansas City for six years, and once hit .348 for the Pirates.
2. What Former Oriole promoted a day for himself?
3. Who holds the National League record for hitting 30 home runs in consecutive seasons.
4. What Hall of Fame member once struck out four consecutive times in an All-Star game?

ANSWERS: 1. Carl Taylor. 2. Cal Abrams. 3. Hall of Famer Eddie Matthews, who, playing for Milwaukee hit 30 or more from 1953-61. 4. Roberto Clemente, in 1967.

As we know, golf courses come in all sizes, shapes and terrain. The standard 18-hole course range anywhere from 6,000 to 7,000 yards. There is a tendency, especially with accomplished golfers, to shy away from short yardage courses that don't meet the challenge of a regulation spread. It could be that there are not enough testing qualities and pars, birdies and low scores go hand in hand with almost every round.

The transistion from a mini-course, consistently played, to a regulation course could be mentally difficult when scores no longer look like professional rounds. Well, I found 3,985 yards, representing 18 holes of golf and I had my hands full, utilizing all my clubs to finish with a respectable score.

Golf course explorer

By Hal Gevertz

LAKE CHABOT of Vallejo (not to be confused with Lake Chabot in Oakland) is the name of the course and it can be found hiding behind the Solano County Fairgrounds off Highway 80 on the way to Sacramento. A large cow-grass open-field driving range distracts first-time players from its location as the clubhouse and first tee are situated on a hilltop behind the range.

Vallejo might be a small community, but it has a large appetite for golf. The Blue Rock Springs golf course, a 6,100 yard course, across Highway 80 from Lake Chabot of Vallejo, generated such an activity of play that a safety valve course had to be instituted. With the meager sum of $25,000 as today's devalued dollar goes, land was purchased in 1955 and Jack Fleming, a very capable architect, was hired to design a nine-hole course.

Another nine was added in 1960 with the help of Joe Motara, resident pro, who assisted in the preparation of the land by removing boulders to build the 4th fairway and filling in land between the 2nd and 3rd holes.

THERE ARE six par fours and 12 par threes on this layout that is built around Lake Chabot. Water comes into play on numbers 2, 7, 8 and 14. The longest par fours are the 340-yard 3rd and the 340-yard 14th. The 3rd hole travels an abrupt sidehill grade of heavy-grassed fairway to a large semi-tiered putting surface.

Number 14 is one of the few level fairways and it comes complete with trees on the left and water on the right through the green. Some fairways are narrowed by thick borders of seasoned pine trees and hazard shots from those treed roughs give one little opportunity for easy recovery.

Many of their 200-yard plus par threes play like par fours, especially when the frequent easterly winds kick up a fuss. A few holes are shaped in "U" fashion with sharp down and up grades. It won't be necessary to jog to stay in shape if you are a regular Lake Chabot customer as good exercise is found on this short and exerting course.

Lake Chabot has many holes of beauty and character. Two of them are the par three 160 yard 7th and the one shot 140 yard 8th. They are built by the trout-laden shores of Lake Chabot and offer no room on the left-watered side to play from.

SOME TEE shots on a few roomy par threes are hit off high foothill sites. Golfers will have the added pleasure of observing golf balls through the air as they descend on green pastures with both good and bad results.

Lake Chabot could be called "Mr. Big Greens" because for the size of this course, the putting tables are huge. I thought I would be in for an easy putting round as the front side didn't show any unauthorized off-line putting movements. But when I played the hillier inward nine I found some sharp tiered greenery with explosive fast breaks. There are about 30 Monterey sand-filled bunkers, expertly tended to help unsnarl golfers who make some of them unintentionally during the round.

SIX HUNDRED rounds of golf represent one normal weekend of play at Vallejo Lake Chabot. So you can see that this small course does have dedicated golfing friends. And if you dispute my observations here, you can always travel to the fairgrounds next door and try your luck against the ponies.

WORLD SERIES TICKETS

The National League gave the Giants the go-ahead Thursday to print playoff and World Series tickets. This morning at 9, World Series tickets started rolling off the press at H.S. Crocker Co. in San Bruno. However, the Giants are not taking ticket orders yet.

Student and 'Rookie' Times Nine Winners

Steve Watkins of Pacific Grove, one of the nation's better steeplechasers, and Judy Fox of Sunnyvale, only a second-year runner, were the class of the Times Nine nine-kilometer run Monday on the Crystal Springs course in the Belmont hills.

Watkins took first place overall in the open division with a 33:57 clocking, while Fox won the women's open division.

A junior at Humboldt State, Watkins had run the Belmont course seven or eight times previously, but "never got in the top 10 in anything important."

Watkins ran a close race with runner-up Joe Salazar, but won easily, and figured he had the 6.2-mile race after about a mile.

"The guys were running a lot harder than I was, while I was feeling pretty good," said the former Monterey Peninsula College competitor who finished seventh at the U.S. national steeplechase championships last year.

Fox, who won the six-mile Empress of the Road run at Foothill College Sunday, made it a double with the victory at Crystal Springs.

At 37, Fox is learning that running is "natural" for her. And winning seems to come naturally, too.

"I only ran as a kid around the block, in my Tomboyish years, trying to beat the boys," said Judy. "And I beat them."

But Fox began to run only two years ago, and is already looking forward to the 20-kilometer nationals in Los Angeles Sept. 23.

"I used to come here (Belmont) just to watch my three high school kids run, but running is fun and I just seem to be naturally good at it. If I wasn't as good, I guess my motivation would be less."

Rusty Knowles and Sharon Yahinek captured the 15-under titles, while Doug Butt and Gail La Doge won the 30-39 division. Other victors were Malcolm Stewart and Ruth Anderson, 40-49; Rich Mueller, 50-59, and Ed Preston, 60-over.

Taking the relay event was the three-some from the Little Hills Striders of Petaluma, Mike Brandner, Stan Hockerson and Dan Aldridge. Second was the Larkspur team of Ray Corona, Peter Sweeney and Mike Porter.

The first-timers race of 9,999 feet was won by David Romdin (men's champ) and Diana Christensen. In the child's division; winners were Jeff Tosado and Wendy Massey.

Wales Heads Dolphins

The Daly City Dolphins Aquatics Club has announced that Daly City resident Fred Wales, has been named head coach for the age group swim team.

Wales brings 10 years of swimming instruction and coaching experience to the position. He is an English and reading teacher at James Denman Junior High in San Francisco, where he has run a swim program for seven years. Two years ago he accepted the head coach's job at Balboa High School and moved the last place city team of four members in 1977 to a second-place powerhouse 45-member team in 1978. Wales resides in Daly City with wife Chris and three children, Vic, 9, Matt, 4, and Melissa, 2. Vic and Matt are excellent swimmers.

His immediate goals are to build the Dolphins team in numbers as well as quality in order to make the team competitive with others in the area.

Formal team practices start today at the Westmoor Pool, 5 to 7 p.m. Dolphins team membership is open to boys and girls 6 to 18 years of age. More information may be obtained by contacting Wales at the pool or by calling Parents Club President Terry DeMartini, 992-1486.

Why the Giants Not on TV

By BOB FOSTER
TV Editor

I just assumed — a real sin for a journalist — that the Giant-Dodger game would be televised Monday night.

But making assumptions is why that game was not on the air.

The Giants and the management of KTVU (2) got together and picked 22 games to be seen this season. Looking over the schedule, both the Giant people and the KTVU management, "assumed" that because Monday night's game was scheduled for a 5:30 start, that the game would be seen on ABC's Monday Night Baseball. Nobody it seems bothered to check with ABC, or maybe even with the Dodgers.

I have known since sometime last May, when the schedule was announced, that the first game of the ABC Monday Night Football would be seen on September 4 between the Dallas Cowboys and the Baltimore Colts.

Fortune in Decor Elegance Shows

PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, is a convenient place for dinner before catching the stage show at closeby Curran or Geary Theaters. Phil spent a fortune on the elegant decor and it shows. Phil offers class without compromise.....The dinner menu at ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, on San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," reads like a gourmet's guide to the finest in American and continental cuisine. You can select your favorite from among tempting dishes such as Crisp Duckling and Braised Peaches with Bigarade Sauce; Scallops of Veal Saute, or Roast Prime Ribs with Yorkshire Pudding.....There's piano bar entertainment every night of the week at BEARDSLEY'S restaurant-lounge in downtown Burlingame. On the Monday and Wednesday nights that NED BAWDEN isn't in the spotlight, BARBARA STAHL takes over the 88s.....Wonder whatever happened to ENRICO ROMANO'S yen for racing cars. Considering the amount of territory he covers, he almost needs one just for here-to-there transportation. However, you're almost sure to find the 'pizza baron' reigning over his ROMANO'S Rockaway Beach restaurant in the evenings.

Congratulations are due NINA, TONY, and ROSALIND LICATA for piloting business at VINCE'S Italian and Seafood restaurant in the same successful fashion launched by Nina's husband, the late VINCE LICATA, many years ago. A friendly feeling is contagious the moment you step inside this family-operated restaurant. In football phraseology, Nina calls the signals and Tony and Rosalind carry the ball. For fresh seafood to prepare at home, visit the Licata's Fish Depot next door.....You can forget all about inflation when your evening out is at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant and entertainment complex in San Francisco. Bustling Business During Lunchtime

L'AUBERGE French restaurant was so busy at lunchtime Tuesday last, that by the time Owner LOUIS FRUTSCHI could sit down for lunch, most luncheon items had been sold out. Louis ordered seven different dishes before the chef could announce to his boss that it was available....."Captain's Favorites" served at ATLANTIC SEAFOOD GROTTO include Steamed Clams Bordelaise, Fish Stew (scallops, prawns, fish, crab, baby clams, and vegetables) and Baked Seafood Monterey (shrimp and crab, chopped spinach and fresh mushrooms).....NICK GUST and his staff are set for a boomerang weekend. Needless to say, if you're planning a dine-out session at THE MOONRAKER, CHARLES or NICK'S in Rockaway Beach, reservations are in order . . . TILLIE'S in Moss Beach is popular for many reasons, but two important ones are that TILLIE SCHOLTZ' German and continental cuisine is authentic (Tillie does her own cooking) and no matter who you are, you're treated like one of the family . . . LORI SHANNON, comedienne extraordinaire, delights audiences with his quick wit and saucy mannerisms in four shows six nights a week (closed Mondays) at FINOCCHIO'S. Treat your out-of-town guests this weekend to a show of shows in San Francisco. Romantic Hawaiian Islands Lure Couples

(Karen Thomas)

THE RALPH VANDROS
(Sally McDowell)

Thomas-Payne

Honeymooning in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wells Payne (Karen Jessica Thomas) who were married a week ago today at Broadmoor Presbyterian Church in Daly City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will E. Thomas of Broadmoor, who hosted the post-nuptial reception at Olympic School in Daly City. The bridegroom is the son of Charles Payne of Hawaii and Barbara Payne of Daly City.

For the 2 o'clock ceremony, conducted by the Rev. Herbert Tweedie, Karen wore her mother's wedding dress, a creation of Alencon lace over ivory satin with mother-of-pearl and sequin embroidery at the neckline. A headpiece of lace caught the lace-trimmed illusion veil which extended over her floor length train. She carried a cascade of white spider chrysanthemums, white carnations and yellow roses.

Debbie Riskin of Daly City served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Ellen Payne of Daly City, sister of the bridegroom, and Cathy Cooper, Dionne Davalos and Tracy Stout. They were dressed alike in gowns of powder blue with ecru lace and ribbon trim.

The honor attendant wore a wreath of baby's breath with blue flowers and yellow streamers and carried a basket of yellow and white daisy chrysanthemums, ivy and yellow roses with yellow streamers. The secondary attendants chose wreaths of baby's breath with yellow and blue flowers and streamers and baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums, carnations and ivy with blue and yellow streamers.

Tracy Thomas of Norwich, Conn., her aunt's flower girl, wore a long dress of ecru fabric with blue flowers and carried a basket of yellow and white daisies. Jeff Adult School Opens Sept. 18

The Jefferson Adult Division will open its doors to students during the week of Sept. 18 through 21.

Many changes have been made in the adult program with the passage of Proposition 13 and the subsequent reduction in available funds for programs. The program no longer will be able to mail the quarterly brochure as in the past.

Tuition for many classes has been increased to $12 per quarter. In addition, some classes require special fees to offset the cost of instructional materials. Some of the tuition classes are art, ceramics, sewing, music, auto maintenance, wood skills, physical fitness for men and posture and exercise for women, and Lamaze-childbirth preparation.

Students who live within the Jefferson Union High School District will be given preferential placement over non-residents in classes that are over-enrolled or have limited space.

Also, it will be necessary that a minimum of 15 students be enrolled at the first class meeting for a class to continue.

As in past years, classes will include instruction in citizenship, English As a Second Language, elementary and secondary basic skills at the learning centers, classes for substantially handicapped adults, parent cooperative preschool and many business classes that can be used for employment opportunities.

For more information call the Adult Division at 755-8558, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Notice

Messages concerning distribution or delivery of the North County Post should be telephoned between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. (952-1295) or sent in writing to the North County Post, P.O. Box 248, San Bruno, CA. 94066.

County Lists New Locations

Effective Sept. 1, clients who use various county social services will find some office location changes, it has been announced by Social Services Director Robert Rippeto.

Some 2,000 people countywide who participate in the non-assistance food stamp program will find that service now centralized in San Mateo at 274 W. 20th Ave. Phone numbers there are 573-2196 and 2197.

MediCal services will begin to be available to East Palo Alto clients at the social service offices in the Municipal Center, 2415 University Ave., Rippeto said. New applicants, regardless of residence, should call the central MediCal number at 573-2304 for an appointment after Sept. 1, Rippeto said.

The Social Service office in Pacifica is being closed and staff transferred to South San Francisco where North County clients may obtain services at 1024 Mission Road. The phone numbers remain the same.

Discussions are continuing with the Pacifica Resource Center, Daly City Community Center, and Neighborhood Services Center of South San Francisco as well as with agencies in the East Palo Alto and Fair Oaks areas to locate community-based and county services in the same regional facilities.

Suicide Help

During a 12-month period ending last June, 103 people in San Mateo County took their own lives.

For each suicide, the Suicide Prevention and Crisis Center of San Mateo County estimates nine others attempt to kill themselves.

The ratio among teenagers, according to Charlotte Ross, executive director of the center, is 50 to 1.

That is why the center, located at 1811 Trousdale Drive, Burlingame, needs mature people to serve as volunteers on crisis phone lines 24 hours a day.

The center receives 2,000 calls a month from potential suicide victims.

Volunteers talk to people in all types of crisis situations, provide counseling for families of suicide victims and develop ongoing "befriender" programs.

Volunteers do not need any previous training nor experience; the center seeks only mature people who want to help others and who have a true willingness to learn, according to Ms. Ross. Volunteers are asked to devote a minimum of four hours a week staffing crisis phones and to commit themselves to work one year at the center.

Trainees will receive 38 hours of intensive training in crisis intervention, communication and counseling skills, referral information and background on depression and suicide to prepare them for handling calls.

Training sessions are conducted by psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers and other mental health professionals, including members of the Crisis Center staff.

Also offered are drop-in counseling services, community outreach, group counseling, a speakers' bureau, grief counseling and psychological autopsies.

The center is now accepting applications for a fall training session that will begin Sept. 23.

Boy Scouts Plan Events

Fall activities for Boy Scouts, their parents and friends, include a countywide "School Night" Oct. 12, a Family Fun Fair Scout-O-Rama Nov. 11 at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds, and other events.

D. C. Catholic Women Meet

Mrs. Roberta Brizuela will preside over her first meeting as president of the Westlake Catholic Women Sept. 11 following the 8 p.m. devotions of Our Lady of Perpetual Help.

Mrs. Sal Machi, chairwoman for the upcoming "Ladies Luncheon League," will have tickets for sale, and hostesses will be present to serve refreshments.

Mrs. Brizuela has invited all women of the parish to attend this first meeting of the 1978-79 year. Sister Carla, principal of Our Lady of Mercy, will be the guest speaker.

Ryan Finally Makes It

Rep. Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo, finally got to meet with city leaders in Pacifica this week.

The congressman had said he would attend the Monday meeting of the City Council, but by the time the council had finished its business, Ryan still had not arrived.

Instead, he met with Mayor Nick Gust, Councilman Stan Farber and City Manager Al St. Cyr over breakfast Thursday morning.

According to St. Cyr, the group discussed at length the communication problem between Ryan's office and Pacifica.

One complaint the councilmen had is that a letter that the council wrote to Ryan recently about Sweeney Ridge never was responded to and no one was sure the letter even had reached Ryan, St. Cyr said.

"A simple acknowledgement would have been a good thing to do," he added.

Another matter discussed by Ryan and the city representatives was St. Cyr's suggestion that cities of Pacifica's size eliminate the middle step of going through the county when working with the federal government.

"I feel that cities of 50,000 or less should be able to deal with the federal government directly," St. Cyr said.

Named to Reform Post

Allan Colman, director of the environmental management department of San Mateo County, has been named to a 12-member task force of the Alan Post Commission on Governmental Reform.

Colman is the only member of the task force representative of local government.

SSF Council Approves Preliminary Budget

The South San Francisco City Council discussed for four hours Wednesday the use of almost $40,000 in revenue sharing funds then went on to quickly adopt a $9.9 million preliminary budget.

City Manager Walter Birkelo said the preliminary budget for 1978-79 is about $300,000 less than last year's general fund budget.

He also said the budget has been trimmed by $441,000 in the last two months as the City Council has gone over the proposed budget item-by-item at several lengthy hearings.

In addition to setting aside $9.9 million for the various departmental expenses, the City Council approved putting $470,000 into a reserve for salary allocations.

Birkelo said this reserve includes salary increases to which the city committed itself prior to the passage of Proposition 13.

The preliminary budget reflects an across-the-board cut in all city departments. Small and large departments alike had their budgets reduced.

The city manager has said the budget reflects the fact that property tax revenues have dropped from $3.2 million in the last fiscal year to almost $1.9 million this year.

Estimates show that South San Francisco will receive nearly $700,000 from the state as its share of the surplus.

Cuts the council has approved include eliminating free sidewalk repair, frequent street sweeping and city-initiated holiday decoration of the downtown area.

Many city memberships in professional organizations have been cut, the fleet of city-owned cars reduced and some employees told they cannot take city cars home after work anymore.

About $50,000 was saved in the Police Department when the council approved a plan to reorganize the department from top to bottom.

In the Fire Department the council decided against saving money by replacing the city-operated paramedic program with the county-run Medevac.

The council also has voted against laying off firefighters although Fire Chief Derk Zylker was told he cannot fill the vacant assistant fire chief's position.

Following is a brief list of the departmental allocations included in the preliminary budget for 1978-79:

City attorney, $114,281; city manager, $306,085; finance, $305,590; fire, $2.6 million; police, $2.9 million; public services, $1.5 million; park and recreation, $1.2 million; library, $423,480.

The council made a thorough review of the revenue sharing budget.

Birkelo said the city has $1.1 million in revenue sharing money available to it and he is recommending that $900,000 be spent on capital improvement projects and be allocated to the general fund.

The remaining $200,000 would remain as a fund balance, he said.

Included in the capital improvement fund is $450,000 for purchase of the Value Giant on El Camino Real and another $200,000 in initial costs to convert the store into a police station and city offices.

The City Council also approved using $38,275 in revenue sharing money for allocation to local social service agencies.

Eight agencies requested funds. The City Council took four hours to consider each of those requests.

The largest allocation is $12,500 to the Neighborhood Services Center, down from last year's $18,000.

A council majority said the center must be more self-supporting.

Vacant Post Unfilled

South San Francisco Fire Chief Derk Zylker can keep his 21-man firefighting force, but cannot fill the vacant assistant fire chief position.

The City Council this week pumped $49,430 into the Department's $2.5 million budget to maintain the force, after rejecting Councilman Emanuel Damonte's suggestion that one fire truck position be eliminated.

Three men are assigned to a fire truck and are expected to arrive at the scene of a fire in advance of the enginemen to make all the necessary site preparations.

Zylker argued during a previous meeting the position of the third man on the fire fighting truck is not only necessary, but also warned its elimination could lead to an entire department reorganization.

dditionally, said the chief, the 21st position should pay for itself by eliminating some of the overtime that would have to be paid to cover men on sick leave.

According to Zylker, the department has high sick leave costs.

Damonte acknowledged that the only way the city could cut back to 20 men would be if the fire department dropped its paramedic program and allowed Medevac to take over.

Councilman Ronald Acosta also urged Zylker to consider using one of his three battalion chiefs as assistant fire chief, and to delay for one year the hiring of an assistant fire chief.

Only Councilman Terry Mirri rejected Acosta's suggestion, saying that the position of assistant fire chief is well recognized for its importance in fire science. He added that the council should go along with the chief.

Zylker now must seek alternatives to filling the assistant fire chief's position and take them back to the council for consideration.

Zylker was just elevated from the position of the city's a stant fire chief last Jan. 15.

In another matter, the board reviewed the building inspector's budget and managed to cut only $150 from the material and supplies account.

The greatest cuts were in memberships.

Mirri suggested the chief building inspector cut out attendance at all professional lunches.

Damonte argued, however, the meetings offer a way to keep up with new laws concerning building regulations.

EARTH STATION

The new receiving "dish" installed by Western Cable TV is checked out by company president Ernest Nelligan Jr., marketing director Bruce Kaufman, pay services coordinator Sue Cardiel and chief engineer Mike Morris.

Beams Shine on SSF From 23,000 Miles

Something called an earth station "dish" has been installed in a back alley of South San Francisco.

This saucer-shaped instrument is not part of the set of a science fiction movie but rather, it has been installed by Western Cable TV to receive beams from an RCA satellite 23,000 miles away.

The new equipment will enable the company to offer cable TV subscribers a new service--pay TV programming for movies, children's shows and entertainment specials.

Marketing director Bruce Kaufman said this system is the first of its kind in San Mateo County.

Other cable TV systems offer this kind of supplemental programming, but Western Cable TV is the first in this county to use a satellite and earth receiver to transmit the shows.

"By doing that, you're getting the best possible quality," he said, because the shows are coming direct from the satellite. Other systems videotape their pay TV programs and, therefore, do not use a satellite, he said.

Cable TV subscribers in South San Francisco already pay a flat fee each month for the service. Kaufman said an additional charge of $9.95 will be added to subscribers' bills if they choose to have the pay TV converter installed.

For a six-day period starting Sept. 16, Kaufman said, subscribers will be offered the pay TV programs at no cost.

In addition to the monthly charge, there will be a one-time $7.50 installation fee and a $20 refundable deposit must be paid, Kaufman said.

About 70 percent of the South San Francisco residents have cable TV in their home, Kaufman said, adding the company hopes about 35 percent of those customers will subscribe to the new service.

San Bruno's Own System Introducing Pay Television

San Bruno's municipally operated cable television system is nearing installation of its pay television for local subscribers, according to David Thomas, chief technician of the system.

In fact, Thomas said Wednesday, more than 250 persons already have signed up for Home Box Office, the Time-Life pay television service to be offered San Brunans beginning Oct. 1.

Thomas said the first week of October has been designated as a "free week." All current cable subscribers will be able to watch Home Box Office programs without charge.

Following that, subscribers may request — at an additional $8 per month in addition to the $6 monthly cable service charge — the Home Box Office service, which will be broadcast on cable Channel 8.

In addition, Thomas said, the earth satellite receiving terminal should be installed in late September at 140 Arbor Court. The concrete foundations for the receiving station already have been installed, he said.

Offered on Home Box Office will be taped night club routines, sports shows, children's features and recent unedited G, PG and R-rated movies. Movies showing on the system in August include "Patton," "Jesus Christ Superstar," "You Light Up My Life," "Bobby Deerfield" and "MacArthur."

San Bruno, one of the few cities in the nation to operate its own cable television system, will offer HBO, which is the largest pay television subscriber in the country, with more than 1.1 million customers.

Leo Van Dusen, public works director, has said that if 20 percent of the city's current cable subscribers choose pay TV, the city's initial capital outlay of $60,000 will be returned in 1¼ years.

Thomas added that, in addition to the $8 and $6 monthly charges, a $15 installation fee will be required, plus a $25 security deposit, which is refundable.

Assessment Notices to Go Out Soon

By RICK SULLIVAN

Notices of post-Jarvis reassessments, reflecting an average increase of 8.4 percent, will not be combined with tax bills to be sent in October, but instead will be prepared for immediate mailing.

According to County Assessor Jack Estes, postcard notices will be printed this week and be ready for mailing on Sept. 12.

Action today by the County Board of Supervisors to rescind last month's decision to combine the mailings, comes in the wake of defeat of proposed state legislation and the outcry of property owners opposed to a delay in the delivery of notices.

Last month, the board agreed to a consolidated mailing to save an estimated $20,000 to $30,000.

The decision was made contingent on enactment of state legislation extending the filing deadline for assessment appeals from the current Sept. 30 to Dec. 15.

Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, had agreed to include that provision in a Prop. 13 clean-up bill introduced as SB 2223.

On Friday that bill, which also provided for some $100 million in state aid to special districts, was defeated in the Senate 22-9.

Today, angry tax-conscious property owners, unaware that the board last month had agreed to a combined mailing and also what effect the Gregorio bill had on the mailings, decried any delay in sending notices.

George Brielie, president of United Homeowners of San Mateo, accused the board of "sneaking in" action to consolidate the mailings and of "going back on its word" to send two separate assessment notices this year.

The comments parallel those made last Friday by tax reform advocate Les Kelting.

He charged the supervisors had acted in "bad faith," noting: "Last April, the board voted to send out two assessment notices — one before the June election and one after. Now the board has decided not to and I'm plainly disturbed."

Supervisor William Royer, who had recommended the notice tax bill consolidation, replied that the public had been given more than a week's notice of his suggestion.

He emphasized that the decision was made only to save much needed revenue this year.

"It was my feeling that because of the closeness of the two mailings they should be combined to save costs," said Royer.

Brielie told the board that many taxpayers suspect the assessor's office has not followed provisions of Prop. 13 in reassessing property.

"We want to have plenty of time before the assessment appeal deadline to examine our reassessments," said Brielie.

"We have heard," he added, "that some property has gone up between 12 and 35 percent."

Kelting commented similarly last week and noted that recently released assessment figures support his position.

Estes announced Aug. 23 that assessments on all real property did not dip significantly as many had expected after enactment of the Jarvis measure, but actually increased an average of 8.4 per cent.

The two cities which showed the most dramatic increase were Foster City, 26.46 percent and Half Moon Bay 24.85 percent. Other cities which showed increases were Atherton, Belmont, Burlingame, Colma, Millbrae, Redwood City, San Bruno, and South San Francisco.

Assessments on property in the remaining cities reflected decreases as high as 14 percent in Brisbane.

Estes has explained that those cities in which assessments increased contained property that sustained more new construction, changes in ownership and turnover than property in the other cities.

Rules implementing Prop. 13, the assessor has stated, require that all property assessment be rolled back to 1975 levels, except in the three cases mentioned.

Estes has said that assessments are brought up to selling prices on new construction and on those properties purchased during the last three years.

Estes has acknowledged that he did not use the actual assessment notices of 1975 to arrive at post-Jarvis assessments. Such a method is not required by the state Board of Equalization.

The assessor noted today that if those assessmentshad been used, property undervaluated in 1975 would have been "frozen" into the new assessment roll.

Church Has 3 Events

Three events are coming up Sunday morning at the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church, 377 87th St., Daly City.

The 10 a.m. worship service will begin with the promotion of Sunday School pupils from one class to another according to school grades. The graduating second graders will receive Bibles. This will be conducted by the superintendents, Frank and Shirley Sevastacis.

Parents are invited to bring children to be enrolled beginning as infants up through the ninth grade. Following this part in the service there will be the singing by the choir and a sermon, "Peace, the Gift of God's Love." This sermon is given by theRev. Lynn Hodges, who will be the speaker at the Family Conference of the church at Mt. Hermon the weekend of Sept. 22-24.

Following the service and Sunday school there will be a church fellowship luncheon in the social hall by the Board of Deacons. Reservations for the luncheon may be made to the church office.

Church Panel Speaker

The Social Action Committee of St. Martin's Episcopal Church invited a staff member of the Citizens Action League to speak at its recent meeting.

Representatives of two other Daly City churches were present: Sr. Jeanenne Weis of St. Andrew's Catholic Church and the Rev. David Swope of Daly City United Methodist Church. The Citizens Action League, or CAL, is a grass roots organization which provides a way for average people to work together for the solution of community problems.

CAL is conducting an organizing campaign in Daly City neighborhoods to talk to people about issues that concern them and to plan action strategies. Further information may be obtained by calling any of the three churches or CAL San Francisco headquarters, 543-4101.
